EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Attorney Stephen A. Terrile (Reg. No. 32,946) on August 5, 2008.

The application has been amended as follows:

Claim 1 (Currently Amended) A computer-implemented method for processing names by a naming service within a data processing system, the computer-implemented method comprising:

obtaining an application name that is associated with an application; obtaining a deployment name that is associated with a deployment attribute that characterizes a deployment of an instance of the application; generating an application-based name for the instance of the application;

storing the application-based name for the instance of the application ~~in a computer~~ ~~storage medium~~, wherein the application-based name represents a context within a naming system;

the application-based name is a compound name that comprises the application name and multiple deployment names associated with multiple deployment attributes;

each of the multiple deployment attributes is a metadata value that characterizes a manner in which the instance of the application is deployed within the data processing system, each of the multiple deployment attributes is selected from a group comprising a deployment identifier, the deployment identifier being a unique identifier associated with the deployment operation, the deployment identifier being unique over all deployment operations within the data processing system or unique over all deployment operations for all instances of the application within the data processing system;

a version identifier or an edition identifier associated with a version of the application; and an identifier for a deployment-associated characteristic or metric;

binding the application-based name to a data object; relating the data object to a context for an application server; and resolving the application-based name to a previously bound data object; and wherein an application comprises a plurality of application modules, each module being associated with a module name and each module being associated with an application-based name based on its module name.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present invention is directed to method for processing names by a naming service to generate application-based names, which are compound names including application name and multiple deployment names, and provide an improved naming system for supporting the installation or deployment of applications and subsequent support in an execution environment for those applications.

The closest prior art of record, Lee et al. (US Patent No 5,745,683) teaches a Federated Naming Framework System including a Federated Naming Service Provider Interface for four kinds of Name Services, which includes a naming service for generating compound names, such as a Naming or Directory service for generating names for files and directories in a file system (see column 1, line 60 to column 2, lines 15).

However, Lee et al. fails to anticipate or render obvious the recited features of “generating an application-based name for the instance of the application, wherein the application-based name represents a context within a naming system; the application-based name is a compound name that comprises the application name and multiple deployment names associated with multiple deployment attributes”, “each of the multiple deployment attributes is a metadata value that characterizes a manner in which the instance of the application is deployed within the data processing system, each of the multiple deployment attributes is selected from a group comprising deployment identifier, the deployment identifier being a unique identifier associated with the deployment operation, the deployment identifier being unique over all deployment operations within the data processing system or unique over all deployment operations for all instances of the application within the data processing system; a version identifier or an edition identifier associated with a version of the application; and an identifier for a deployment-associated characteristic or metric” and “each module being associated with an application-based name based on its module name”, as in independent claim 1.

These features, together with the other limitations of the independent claim are novel and non-obvious over the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”
